Personal Landing Page

Project 01 Preparation | Jazmine Reynolds

1. Purpose and Intended Audience

My purpose landing page will introduce me as a student and give visitors a quick overview of my work, developing skills, and interests. My intended audience will include classmates, instructors, and potential employers. I want the page to feel welcoming, organized and personal.

2. High Level Content

- Introduction: My name, a personal photo, and a short introduction.
- About me: A brief overview of my educational interests, goals, and personality.
- Selected projects: Examples of academic work and personal projects, with short descriptions and links when available.
- Skills: A high-level overview of skills I am learning and developing.
- Personal Interests: A small section showing hobbies, creative interests, or activities I choose to share.
- Contact: An email address and relevant profile links.

3. Hierarchical Organization on One Webpage

Header: My name followed by navigation links.

- Introduction: The most important section with my photo and a “View My Work” link.
- About Me: A short introduction to my background and goals.
- Selected projects: A small collection of work samples.
- Skills: Grouped labels describing what I am learning.
- Personal Interest: A brief personal touch after the academic content.
- Contact and Footer: Email, relevant profile links, and my name.

The navigation links will jump to sections on this same page rather than opening separate webpages. This order introduces me first, highlights my work next, and leaves visitors with a clear way to contact me.

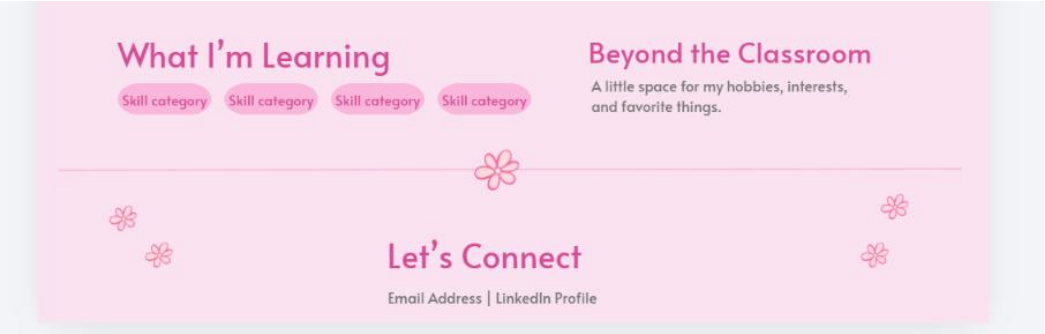

Design Direction and Prototype

4. Proposed Visual style and CSS

I want my personal landing page to stand out with a pink floral theme that reflects my personality. I will use a soft blush pink background, cream colored content areas, deep rose headings, and dark plum text. My introduction will feature my name in a large, elegant heading beside my photo. Flower illustrations will decorate the corners of my photo and the edges of the page without covering the content. Project cards will have petal inspired rounded corners, and small floral dividers will separate the major sections. I will use CSS to add rounded buttons, consistent spacing, and gentle hover effects. On smaller screens, the photo, text, and project cards will stack vertically. I want the finished page to feel like a personal floral journal while keeping my information clear and organized.
